

Major activities of the Japan section of ANS

2010JFY (April 2010–March 2011)

2011JFY (April 2011–March 2012)

April – June, 2012

The International Affairs Committee (IAC) was founded in 1973 as one of the associations of the Atomic Energy Society of Japan (AESJ). The English appellation of the committee was initially “Foreign Professional Societies Coordinating Committee”, the appellation was changed to IAC in 2010 in view of describing more specifically the activities of the committee.

Since its establishment, IAC has maintained close contact with ANS through activities as information exchanges and lecture meetings. IAC has become officially the Japan Section of the American Nuclear Society since 1999.
